"PA WILL ACCEPT."
Jubilant Among Blaine Men Over That Reported Telegraphic Message.
(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
Chicago, June 4.—There is a stiffening of the backbone of the Blaine supporters in Chicago over the statement that Edmund Blaine, who is here, has received a telegram from his mother saying briefly: "Pa will accept."
Young Mr. Blaine has been besieged by the friends of his father, all seeking confirmation of the report. With all the talk about the refusal to disclose, but each one of them comes away smiling and more confident than ever of the man from Maine. To the reporters Edmund Blaine will give no direct answer.
Following the news of this official despatch came rumors that the official relations between Harrison and Blaine, long strained, had now completely ruptured, and that the Secretary's resignation would be submitted at once.
In the Chicago delegation to Minneapolis there is a large contingent who have declared for Harrison on the supposition that Blaine would not run, though they were all Blaine men. They are in a quandary. This public avowal of Blaine's candidacy puzzles them as to their duty, but it is believed by them that by the time Illinois is reached in the recall of the vote for Blaine will have grown so strong that they will be relieved of their pledges and may vote for Blaine.
Late editions of the morning papers say it is sure that Edmund Blaine received the telegram from his mother as stated.

MAINE FEELS SURE OF BLAINE.
An Orator Already Chosen to Present His Name at Minneapolis.
(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
Augusta, Me., June 4.—The State Committee has elected Joseph H. Manley, Mr. Blaine's chief lieutenant in a hundred political battles, to the vacancy on the National Republican Committee caused by the resignation of John J. Stoughton.
This is looked upon as highly significant, and it is now said that Gen. Hayes was prevailed upon to resign in order to make way for a stronger man, one indisputably identified as a Blaine man, and one who can cheer his candidacy at Minneapolis. The Blaine men of Augusta are correspondingly militant and they expect their ticket that Blaine will win.
A despatch has been received from the National Republican Convention at Minneapolis saying that the delegation has about agreed upon Attorney-General Charles E. Littlefield, of Kentucky, to present Mr. Blaine's name to the Convention. Mr. Littlefield has a commanding presence, a magnificent voice and is eloquent.

Iowa "Solid for Harrison."
(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
Des Moines, Ia., June 4.—Secretary of State McFarland is quoted as saying that while in Chicago the other day he saw Edmund Blaine and that he told him that both he and his mother were in favor of having his father nominated. Notwithstanding this, however, Mr. McFarland said in the same interview that he had no intention of supporting Blaine, and that he was physically solid for the Harrison ticket.
Commissioner C. C. Woodruff, who was until recently Chairman of the Congressional Committee, is also quoted as saying that Iowa is unquestionably unanimous for Harrison.

McKinley Says He's Not a Candidate.
(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
Columbus, O., June 4.—After a long confab with Chairman W. M. Hahn, of the State Republican Committee, and State Senators Smith and other State officials, Gov. McKinley was asked if it was true that his name will be submitted to the Convention in the event of a failure to name Harrison or Blaine on the first one or two ballots. He replied that he believed Harrison would be nominated, and that he was a candidate for the Chairmanship of the Convention.

Harrison's Jersey Majority.
(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
Trenton, N. J., June 4.—New Jersey delegates to the Minneapolis Convention have canvassed for Presidential preferences with the following result: For Harrison, 11; for Blaine, 7; non-committal, 2. For Vice-President, Arthur, 6; Alder, 3; non-committal, 12.

Will He Be Cleveland and Boies?
(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
Atlanta, Ga., June 4.—The discussion of the Democratic Vice-Presidential nomination seems to point to Boies, of Iowa. The Journal's delegates are at issue.

LOOK FOR A LONG STRIKE.
Neither Granite Workers Nor Bosses Show Signs of Yielding.
The indications in regard to the pavers' and granite-cutters' strike this morning are that the struggle between the unions and the bosses will be long drawn out. There is no apparent prospect of an amicable settlement, nor that either side will weaken.

It was reported at the pavers' cutters' headquarters in East Thirty-third street, that six non-union men had been induced to quit work on the Broadway paving job, near Bowling Green.

Reports were received from Milton, Mass., that the business of that place had raised $50,000 for the purpose of operating a quarry and employing the locked-out men.

From Philadelphia comes information that the soft-stonecutters have resolved to support the granite cutters in the strike, and have declared a boycott against Association stone.

Secretary Brown, of the local Granite Cutters' Union, declared this morning that granite cutters had been locked out in this city. He said the best of feeling existed between the Union Granite Cutters and the Non-Association Granite Dealers, notwithstanding the attempts on the part of the members of the Association to influence local dealers against the men.

DAILEY PUT ON TRIAL.
He Refused to Be Sworn at the Police-Board Hearing.
Better to Be Dismissed Than Prejudged, Said His Counsel.

Mamie Hannan and Lizzie Lawlor Tell Again of the Assault.
Roundsmen Matthew F. Dailey rode down to Police Headquarters this morning from the High Bridge station to stand trial before Commissioner Maclean on three of the most serious charges ever preferred against him. On April 2, 1890, he was fined two days pay for using abusive language to women. To-day he was not only charged with a similar offense, but also with running the daughter of the woman he is alleged to have abused.

The charge of assault made against Dailey by Mamie Hannan, the pretty sixteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Anne Hannan, on which Dailey has been held for the Grand Jury, was backed up by two other charges at his trial before the Police Board. The three specifications were:
First, that while on patrol duty he was absent from his district at 8 p. m., May 23, the night he arrested Mrs. Hannan; second, that about 7:30 p. m., May 23, he arrested Mrs. Anne Hannan without cause, and used vile language towards her; and, third, that while in uniform about 9 p. m., March 24, he was in a station in a back room, drinking with Mamie Hannan, and that subsequently he accomplished her ruin by force.

Commissioner Maclean was promptly on hand at 9 o'clock, the hour set for the trial. At that time there were also present in the courtroom Roundsmen Dailey and Sgt. McDonald, who, Mamie says, was present during the assault. Capt. Eakins, Sgt. Gallagher, who brought the Delancy street station blotter; Mamie Hannan, her mother and the Brown boy who unconsciously summoned Mrs. Hannan to her arrest; Susan's friend and house, counsel for Dailey and McDonald; and Assistant District Attorney Macdonald, who is prosecuting the criminal action for the people.

Lizzie Lawlor, the important witness, who was located by an EVENING WORLD reporter after the police had declared she could not be found, was not present at the opening of the trial, but came in later.

DAILEY WANTED AN ADJOURNMENT.
Lawyer House moved for an adjournment of Dailey's trial until after two o'clock, and decided by the criminal court, on the ground that it might be prejudiced by any action taken by the Police Board.
Dailey's counsel argued for nearly an hour in support of this motion. He cited the cases of Patrolman Lynch, who was accused of assaulting a woman in the ambulance entrance of the Presbyterian Hospital, and other officers whom he had defended and whose police trials had been postponed until after the disposal of the criminal actions.

Commissioner Maclean declined to grant Mr. House's motion. He held that the first charge against Dailey had nothing whatever to do with the criminal charge, and that he felt it his duty to go on with the case. If Dailey was innocent, he should prove his innocence; if he was guilty, he should be removed from the force.

"If you force us to go on," said Lawyer House, "we shall make a defense whatever, even if it means a life sentence. It is better that he be discharged from the force than that he be sentenced in a court where he must fight for his liberty."

Commissioner Maclean insisted that the trial go on.
"Might I suggest that you suspend Dailey, even if it means a life sentence, until he is acquitted on the criminal charge," put in Lawyer House.

"That is not what I am talking about," replied Commissioner Maclean. "Is that all you care to say?"

"That is all," chorused Lawyers Friend and House.

THE NEWSMAN REFUSED TO BE SWORN.
Clerk Peterson then called the first case against Dailey. His counsel advised him not to be sworn and to say nothing. He obeyed. Commissioner Maclean snidely remarked, "Very well," and proceeded to examine Capt. Eakins, Sgt. Gallagher, Frank Brown, Mrs. Hannan and Lizzie Lawlor, as to Dailey's absence from his district. To all appearances the charge was clearly proven.

So also was the second charge of arresting Mrs. Hannan and using vile language towards her. In addition to the witnesses on the first case, John Hannan, Mamie's brother, gave testimony on this specification. After examining each witness Commissioner Maclean inquired of Dailey's counsel:

"Would you like to ask any questions, gentlemen?"

"No, we're not in it," drily remarked Lawyer House on the first of these occasions. Shortly afterwards he let the courtroom but before he went he said to an EVENING WORLD reporter:

"THE BROWNIES' FRIENDLY TURN."
(Adapted from Mr. Palmer Joffe's story about how the good little Brownies, finding that the sick village parson had no kindling wood, gathered a lot and laid it at his door.)

"That morning when the parson rose, Against the pane he pressed his nose, And tried the outer world to scan To learn how signs of weather ran."

FOLEY SAFE FROM LYNCHING.
Port Jervis Will Not Duplicate Thursday Night's Crime.
(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
Port Jervis, N. Y., June 4.—Miss Lena McMahon, for an assault upon whom Negro Bob Lewis was lynched Thursday night, is still in a critical condition to-day, but will probably recover. Her physicians say that absolute relief is required for her.

With the removal of Foley to Goshen Jail, an danger that he might also be lynched has passed.

Respectable citizens now deprecate the lynching and say that the mob was composed mainly of the rough element of the population. It is not believed, however, that any of the rioters will ever be tried or punished for the part they took in the affair.

Peter J. Foley, who was implicated by Bob Lewis before his death in the assault upon Lena McMahon, has a brother in this city, J. P. Foley, a clerk in the office of the Worthington Steam Pump Company, 85 Liberty street. He is an upright, reputable man, occupying a responsible position and is highly esteemed by his employers. He says that his brother has forfeited the right to brotherly sympathy, and that if it is true that he was in collusion with Lewis, it is a pity he was not strung up with the negro.

To an EVENING WORLD reporter Mr. J. P. Foley this morning said: "My brother is twenty-six years old. He was born in Warren, Mass., where our mother and sister now live. Mother is seventy-five years old and this trouble may prove fatal. Peter is the youngest of her three children, and naturally was always petted. He learned the trade of a machinist in Warren, and afterward worked at his trade there and in Holyoke and in Boston."

"He came to New York, and for a time was engaged as pump salesman by the Gordon Street Pump Works, a little way from here. He was petted, he learned the trade of a machinist to drinking and idling, and I was several times called upon to pay his bills and money that he borrowed from my father."

Miss Bruce Gives $25,000.
Miss Catherine Wolfe Bruce, of 39 East Twenty-third street, has donated $25,000 to the permanent endowment fund of the Dugger Observatory in Albany.

BOY FALES'S JURY IS OUT.
The Precocious Prisoner's Fate Awaited with Interest.
(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
NEWARK, N. J., June 4.—The Court of Oyer and Terminer was again crowded this morning with people who had become interested in the case of Robert Allen Fales, the boy who murdered Thomas Hayden, the messenger and bookkeeper for Potter's straw hat factory on Mulberry street.

Young Fales was in court with his counsel. He did not appear to betray any nervousness. His mother was not present, this being the first day of the trial she has seen for her nerves.

Several of the benches were moved up close to the railing for the accommodation of the ladies connected with the house of Prayer.

Just before Judge Boggs began his charge, President of the court said he had a few more remarks to make to the jury. It was then 10:30 o'clock. He dwelt upon the evidence of Dr. Hinchey, superintendent of the insane Asylum of Essex county, who had testified that Fales was not insane. He spoke about twenty minutes.

At 10:50 o'clock Judge Deque began his charge to the jury, after which they retired.

East River Park Frequenters Should Act at Once.
Otherwise the Change May Be Deferred for a Year.

For Evening Concerts at East River Park.
To the Honorable Board of Park Commissioners, GENTLEMEN:
As citizens of New York, residents in the neighborhood and frequenters of East River Park, we respectfully petition your honorable body to change the hour of the band concert, now given at that pleasant resort on Thursdays, from 1 o'clock to the afternoon to 8 o'clock in the evening, believing that such a change is desired by the great majority of residents of that vicinity.
Name.....
Address.....
Fill out this blank and send it to the Evening Concert Committee, THE EVENING WORLD, P. O. Box 2,364, New York City.

Signatures are already coming in for the petition drawn up by THE EVENING WORLD to convince the Park Board that the desire for a change from afternoon to evening concerts in East River Park is general among the residents of that neighborhood.

Within two hours after the first coupon was printed several had been cut out, signed and brought personally to this office. This morning's mail contained many more.

While the number of signatures so far received is very gratifying, THE EVENING WORLD wishes to impress upon those who have not yet signed that the petition must be sent in as early as possible, so that the petition may be completed and forwarded to the Park Board as soon as possible.

Unless the change is speedily made the great majority of workmen, girls and housewives living in the neighborhood of East River Park will derive no benefit or enjoyment from the concerts given there this year.

Three members of the Park Board are inclined to favor the change, and no Commissioner has yet opposed it. Still, no definite action has been taken, and it is intimated that the desire for evening concerts is not general.

It is for the purpose of demonstrating to the Park Commissioners that the change is wanted by the frequenters of the park that THE EVENING WORLD has volunteered to collect signatures for a petition on the subject.

It is an easy matter to sign the coupon at the head of this column and to cut it out and forward it as directed. As fast as they are received the signatures will be added to the general petition.

If you favor evening concerts, send in your name and get your friends to do the same.

SUICIDE ON THE SIDEWALK.
One Shot to Test the Revolver, Another for Instant Death.

Jacob Schwalm, a German tailor, thirty-two years old, took his life at about 4 o'clock this morning by shooting himself on the sidewalk opposite 363 West Thirty-sixth street.

A policeman heard two shots, and running up found the suicide lying dead.

He had seated himself on the curbstone and then fired one shot into the gutter to see if the pistol was working. The second shot he fired into his brain. The bullet passed through the right temple, and death was instantaneous.

Schwalm formerly lived at 418 West Thirty-sixth street. He had been sick with some chronic stomach trouble for many months and was slowly dying.

A few weeks ago he made up his mind to go to Europe in the hope that the sea voyage would benefit him. He sold out all his belongings and scraped up enough money to pay for his passage. After he had sold everything he had he went to sleep with a friend of his named Jacob Schlemmer, living at 460 West Thirty-sixth street.

Last Wednesday he was to have sailed, but his friends good-bye and left to go on board the steamer. He came back, however, and said he was too sick to go. He was very feeble and it was with difficulty that he kept on his feet. He might be put up in the middle of the night, and left the house. The last heard of him was when he shot himself. In his pocket was found a letter addressed to his friend Schlemmer in which he said he was tired of life and that he was sorry to do this, but he knew he could live long. He requested that a decent burial be given him and sent greetings to all his friends.
